Iris Building Group is a Denver-area custom homebuilder, renovator, and remodeler.

Where do you get your inspiration?

We are inspired by the architectural gems found throughout Denver. Our projects are carefully designed to honor the character of Denver's great neighborhoods and, wherever possible, to contribute in a meaningful way to the unmistakable warmth and charm of these distinctive areas.

What advice would you give a potential homeowner for deciding how to choose their new home?

We always urge people to choose homes that are constructed to last. As people's needs change, finishes can be updated to reflect new styles, and structures modified, but owning a home with 'good bones' allows these changes to happen more easily.

What do you like most about your work?

Iris Building Group is made up of construction professionals with a wide range of industry experience; they share a commitment to working closely with our clients, many of whom have retained our firm to complete multiple engagements. At the end of the day, our clients' satisfaction is the most rewarding part of our work.

Can you talk about new trends in home building?

Our work reflects the trends toward energy efficiency, improved home automation, bringing the outdoors into homes (with outdoor rooms, retractable walls, among many examples) and creating livable, rather than formal, spaces.
